Free ones scare you? The free ones are usually the best on the market. Even though that goes against your natural instinct of you get what you pay for, free antivirus companies do not have thousands of dollars to spend on advertising they have to base themselves on reputations. Symantec (Norton) is one of the most corrupt "respected" companies around. They themselves have created a virus that is their program. It impedes the users progress and is all around bothersome, the same as a virus.
