I think racist words should be allowed if they can be used in a context that doesn't sound like a hate word. You can call someone a faggot as long as you aren't using it as an insult, as well as calling someone nigger of darky or even whitey.

You can call someone a "faggot" or a "nigger" without using it as an insult? If I was either gay or black and someone called me that I would most certainly smash their face in. It's about respect people. Plain and simple, if you expect others to respect you you have to behave in a respectful manner as well.
