Ok, ack let me type slower so you can understand.

All I said was put yourself in the situation where you would be discriminated against. And then come talk to me. It does not sound like you felt discriminated against when living in Mexico. What it sounds like, is you just hated it there, because of the filth? What does that have to do with hating all mexicans?

About being liberal. Not true, actually, I am a moderate. For me, I like to treat people with respect, no matter their situation. Another thing ACK, eventhough I was treated like shit by the most of the Natives where I was serving, I do not condem them all or the people of that nationality I meet here in the states today.

Again ack, just my opinion.
