1st, before you make yourself look even more dumb...I don't have a wife...been divorced for a while...and she never played Renegade when I was with her and you have no clue who the hell she is or was...

Thanks for trying to be smart, but proving otherwise...stick to something you may know something about...

2nd...Alk didn't start it so UN could shit on others...he started it to be a great public server...which it was for the longest time...till he became more and more hands off...

3rd, I will agree with the statement now as they care less and less about anyone that isn't UN and even more so in how a mod or two abuse players cause they feel like it...idiotic attitudes like that are what make it a failing server...try counting when it is full and see how many times you run out of fingers counting regulars...there used to be almost all regulars in there and it would have 10 or more 24/7 going in there...now it's just random players and others have found other servers to migrate too...including UN's own members and mods...that tells ya something too...
