Because of my administrative position being so close to Crimson I see more than you can ever imagine. I talk to more community members in a hour than you have in the last week. I know what Crimson, n00bstories, BHS, strike-team, ect are working on and doing to better Renegade. But what I do not know is who you are and why you think you have the slightest clue what is going on around you.

You may go in the red yes, but not for this game you don't. Or let me guess your next story is that you either run or have ran a server in the past?

I did not speak for everyone. I gave statements that are mine and mine alone.
