What makes her different is she knows people and how to get things done. I don't know anyone from EA. She runs the community, she knows what everyone's trying to do. She also has the drive and give-a-damn that allows her to actually host servers and run a forum. I couldn't do any of this because:

- A. I don't have any money at all, I'm poor and I couldn't afford 1000$ plus a month on bandwidth for community sites and servers.
- B. I don't have the drive, I would just sit back and say it's too bad there's no community anymore... I wouldn't go create one.
- C. I can't deal with people. No I don't mean "ZOMG A PERSON AHFFF" I mean that I can't make people work. Someone attacked the community and I'd keep giving them second and third and fourth chances because I'm too nice and feel guilty about everything.

That's what makes her different, and what has allowed this community to even exist. People like her have to be in charge and people like me have to post pictures of subwoofers in General Discussion.
