
Subject: Re: Renguard has too many issues with TFD
Posted by rc22fires on Tue, 27 Jun 2006 20:16:48 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

pyrogunz wrote on Tue, 27 June 2006 00:50I held off installing Renguard, and after reading these forums, maybe I should just abandon the idea completely...

Renguard has been around for a while and has earned a good reputation. Most people like it, most people have no problems with it. It deserves a try at leaste.

Renguard lets you do extra on Brenbot servers. The core patches are also wonderful.

I just feel sorry for those who put their hate toward Renguard. Renguard has been blamed for alot of things, some true and some not. Some of the things Renguard gets blamed for is funny, and so is alot of the reasons for why certain people don't use it. It's their loss though, not everybody can be smart. Us Renguard user's are smart, the people who don't use Renguard because it "lags their computer" however arn't.

Those people almost bother me as much as illiterates, illiterates when it come to the computer, Renguard or Renegade. When people ask newbie questions I flip out on them. Warning in advance.

Anyway, just give Renguard a chance and try it. Don't abandon the idea because that's foolish. Just try it and if you don't like it or have a problem get rid of it.

Renguard can't be used on Windows 2000 or the 64 bit edition of Windows XP like danpaul said. Some people using the First Decade have a few problems. Also people sometimes have a problem downloading and installing the CorePatch through the Renguard Client, but the reason they have to post here or do nothing(the ones too stupid to know what to do, as in come here) is because they did not read the fine print in the Renguard window. Ignorance is one of the biggest things that drives people here asking for Renguard help. And there is nothing I hate more than ignorance..... anyways

Well that was mostly all the problems that are common, there is a very tiny chance that something will happen for an unexplained reason.

So give Renguard a try, you got nothing to lose. You most likely wont have a problem.
