I have the Logisys funky funk. It looks great, and feels comfortable, BUT!
The tolerance between the bore in the casting and the keys is to great. So they tend to bind if you don't hit the center of the key. which is impossible on the strangely shaped enter key. Plus I still can't see the letters, and the damn modifier for the function keys pisses me off. If I'm trying to boot into safe mode or save and exit the BIOS it may or may not work without using the modifier key. I don't like it, but I didn't think I would.
