Havnt hard of them much so ill leave them unless its absolutly critical that i get one.

Your 3rd real free option is Kerio. I have an older version on my laptop and it's good, but the latest version can get quite annoying.

I disagree there. A router will give you good protection against outside attacks (incoming connections) but any spyware on your system will have free access to the internet if you don't use a firewall to block outgoing connections.
