It does happen, and it does work, and it does win games but... Most people will only rush with people they know, you ask for team work until the game ends but most players just ignore you. When a rush fails there is always some hurt feelings some were and people just start swearing at

On the matches I have played it usually takes just two people to work together to win the match (,this would be 8v8 or 6v6), two meds can wreck up a base in no time, two techs and a buggy can kill any building.

It happens less and less though.
