Do you have this problem on every server?

What firewall software are you using?

-It could be a combination of problems. The fact that you can establish a connection to a server and maintain it for short periods of time tells me that its not the game/renguard. Since your firewall should either permit or deny it up front ... I'm doubting it is that, either. My guess is that it's either the server you're using (could be a crappy server that crashes often) or it could be your internet connection.
