
Subject: Re: Computer died -- Need advice on building new one!

Posted by PackHunter on Sun, 23 Jul 2006 21:12:17 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Renx wrote on Sun, 23 July 2006 17:03 Here's a computer for $900 with actual quality components. Just throw a case in there for another $50. Not saying you should go with this, just an exmple to try and get my point across.

AM2 is total bull, they are allmost nothing faster then regular amd 64's with DDR and he would need to throw away the 512 MB mem he already has and buy DDR2. And a 7600GT graphics card, allthough it used to be one of the best value for money cards, is pretty old.
