

---

Subject: Re: hardkil has threatened to impersonate me
Posted by warranto on Thu, 03 Aug 2006 23:36:46 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Blazer wrote on Thu, 03 August 2006 11:58warranto wrote on Thu, 03 August 2006 11:43Ah, this just gets better and better. You have to love it when some idiot comes in, pretends to be someone else to provide his own defence, pretends to work at multiple game companies, at the same time nonetheless (to hardkil: do Vivendi and EA know you work for other game companies at the same time you work for them?), then professes to have knowledge of that law with his accusation of "posting personal information" (in which he admits openly to being hardkil).

Gotta love it.

Don't forget he was also a Marine and law enforcement too. Next he will probably mention that he passed the Bar exam and will be personally filing a lawsuit, during his offtime as a secret agent protecting the President, and his lab work at Area51.

Well, he could have been in the JAG Corps. That covers all those areas. His interesting idea about the law regarding "posting (his) identity" also shows why he only survived 6 years.

---