If you're all just sixteen year olds then stop acting like you're grown up. Not everyone in here is a teenager and I'm sick of hearing this excuse too. You think because, you're a teenager it gives you an excuse to act like a fucking idiot. Your parents have no control over you and you think this is how the world is. Well, its not. I'm not going to put up with your stupid shit. You kids think you know everything about anything. The fact is you know nothing which is why your still in school and probably failing at that too. It's none of your business which gaming company I work for they pay me not you. You're not my dependants so, therefore it's not your concern.
