

---

Subject: Re: Imagining the Tenth Dimension
Posted by warranto on Sun, 13 Aug 2006 20:41:47 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Hm.. curious then. What if, seeing as how the String theory is described as though they are vibrating in the 10th Dimension, the strings had vibrated differently?

The 10th dimension is described as all possible events based on how the strings are vibrating. Could, then, a new "line" be drawn between the two different type of vibrations? a sort of 11th dimension? Basically, the super strings are vibrating a certain way, which creates all possible realities. What if, we could reach out and change the way those strings are vibrating? Keeping in mind that the current dimation can only modify the dimensions below it, and can only perceive dimensions above it as in it's own dimension.

Changing the way the strings vibrate changes the possibility of the 10th dimension itself, thereby creating an 11th dimension in the process? A line joining this string's vibrations, with the next vibration arrangement?

---