

---

Subject: Re: That's it! I have had it with these motherfucking snakes on this motherfucking plane!

Posted by YSLMuffins on Wed, 16 Aug 2006 10:43:13 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Oh gosh, what this guy has to say about the film makes me resigned beyond belief.

Quote:

And think about how many old films could be re-released to take advantage of the new marketing concept:

“Citizen Kane” would be re-released as “Rich Guy with a Sled Obsession”

“Lawrence of Arabia” would be “Flamboyant Man in the Desert”

“Jaws” would be “Shark in the Water”

“Look Who's Coming to Dinner” would be “Black Guy Dates White Girl”

“Star Wars” would be “Men in Space”

“Top Gun” would be “Guys in Jets”

“The Exorcist” would be “Girl Possessed by the Devil”

“The Shawshank Redemption” would be “Man in Prison”

“The Lord of the Rings” would be “Small People on a Journey”

“Se7en” would be “Cops Searching for a Serial Killer”

“Das Boot” would be “Men in a Submarine”

So, be aware when you go to see “Snakes on a Plane.” You're sending a message to Hollywood and it might change cinema forever.