It's a nice upgrade. It now supports IP banning, muting players, and Server admins can drag and drop players into other channels (even locked ones). The windows server now has the telnet interface that the linux one does.

I got feedback from the developers, and they are implementing the extra commands i need in the next patch. So auto-teaming will definitely be a reality soon.