

---

Subject: Re: Server DLLs

Posted by vloktboky on Thu, 31 Aug 2006 07:23:30 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

I have a suggestion to this community. Has anyone ever tossed around the idea of having an external script or at the very least an XML feed that could allow someone to make their own console commands? The code takes whatever the user typed and can either look it up in an XML feed or pass it through a callback routine in an external script and the end user can define what happens when that command gets called. I'm sure a lot of server hosts may find such a feature quite useful to their needs.

---