If you're running XP there is an option to restore to an earlier date.. unless you leave your computer on 24/7 like me and don't have a restore point, then you're screwed.

Start -> Programs -> Accessories -> System Tools -> System Restore

If you can't do that I'd recommend running a spyware scan if you have a program on your PC capable of doing that. Also try booting into Safe Mode and see if you can get a better idea of the problem.

The shutdown error is associated with a process not being loaded that is required by Windows, most likely that svchost.exe file you can't find.
