It seems the US is about the only economic super power that still seems to believe it isn't. then again, they also seem to believe that there's an unlimited amount of petrol left. Funny, not?

What evidence? The earth has rising temperatures? Sure, but, as already stated by me and Crimson, the earth goes through natural reoccurring cooling and warming stages.

Just because we consume the most amount of petrol doesn't mean that we automatically think it's an unlimited supply.
