

---

Subject: the draft

Posted by anort893 on Fri, 23 May 2003 06:10:00 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Quote:...my dad is the manager of an oil rig in Africa...I know more about the oil bussiness than you will probably ever know...

stop pretending that you know more than us. The mechanics of operationg a well is very different from the economics that put the well there. That is assuming you really do have a oil rig manager father.

Quote:You're right...without the military...we would be taken over and have lost our freedoms...but without people like me...they'd be out there dying for nothing.

I think you are stroking your ego a little too much. Please stop with this "holier than thou" crap, it distracts from any sort of real debate.

---