You have valid points there. But with AHost you're not paying for "professional" (as you would define it) hosting. AHosts prices are almost 1-2x less than a "professional" host. Then again, just because someone isn't a 25 year old established geek like myself doesn't mean that they're not qualified either. Like Nightma12. He does one hell of a job for his age. I've been very impressed. Don't underestimate 'the little guy'
