

---

Subject: Re: A sniff of democracy (aka ACK vote)
Posted by Spoony on Fri, 06 Oct 2006 07:43:50 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

sterps wrote on Fri, 06 October 2006 02:26 So your saying that ack abusing people, putting their work down, leaking mods, creating tensions in the community is not wrong? If you dont think its wrong, then how can you expect people to believe what you say. Regardless, i make my own decisions and perceptions on topics. On the one your talking about, i have made my decisions, and from the way you have put your last post, it justifies my decision, and im glad. Calling someone gullible for having their own opinion on a matter is quite childish and aggressive.

Grow up...

Easy, tiger. Here's the post I was referring to.

sterps wrote: To all those that are his friends or are close to ack. Be warned and be wary. I thought ack and crimmy were close friends too, she always gave him the benefit of the doubt, even put him above the communities best interests sometimes. Well i was obviously wrong. For someone to do all of this to a close friend, then there is the chance he may do it again. Who knows how many of you he has IRC conversations saved.

See, you're totally changing the subject with your second reply, because this...

sterps wrote: ack abusing people, putting their work down, leaking mods, creating tensions in the community

...isn't something Aircraftkiller did to Crimson.

---