
Subject: Re: A sniff of democracy (aka ACK vote)
Posted by cheesesoda on Fri, 06 Oct 2006 15:12:38 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

KIRBY-098 wrote on Fri, 06 October 2006 11:02j_ball430 wrote on Fri, 06 October 2006 09:44I log all of my IRC conversations. Private or public. I have every right to do so, and it certainly isn't some result of any preplanning to turn on someone. I like copies of my conversations, in case I forget something or I choose to read back on something I discussed earlier. Logging does come in handy.

Do you turn them over to others without the permission of the person that partook in the conversation?

That's the issue.

I am so very glad you chose to do the right thing. Delete them now, so you can clear your conscience.

I have pasted bits of my conversation to others without the consent of the other person. It's not any personal information, nor is it anything I use against the other person. Majority of my private conversations remain buried in my log folder collecting dust.

Edit: I deleted the logs. I proved that they're not tampered with, so that purpose was fulfilled.
