Heh.

It's actually Dr. Alan Reed, the inventor of the Synaptic Link Technology. The government dropped his funds after he made the breakthrough to make humans and computers physically communicate, and he went heywire, thus forming The NEXUS Intruder Program.

"The NEXUS Intruder Program infiltrated NASDAs (North American Strategic Defence Agency) satellite nuclear defence systems and attacked the world. The counter attacks caused a nuclear fallout and only a few survived."

In the game you play as "The Project" and fight others for free will all over the world.

It's actually quite a good game... bar the graphics (it was 1999 you know, and originally for PSX).
