Im sure that we all had those instances where we were a hotwire/teck in a good veicle going somewhere when.... you pass a crate.... You think it over for a second and decide not to take the risk of loosing your character and vehicle, so you just stroll allong passing it by. But this is what you could have done: You could have went outside and there Proximity C4 inside the crate so that if an enemy soldier gets it he will die. I did this and it DOES work. So Im hoping <Well Not Really> that the nextime I get a crate I will get hit with proxies.
