That was the dumbest use of sarcasm I've ever seen.

You state that Inuits are Canadian. You used Inuits, not I.

Eskimo groups in Canada and Greenland have adopted the name Inuit, although the term has not taken hold in Alaska or Siberia.

Behold, all groups are known as Eskimos, as I clearly stated.

So the idea of an Eskimo from the North Pole, Greenland, Siberia, in furs, rubbing noses with the Glaswegians, of Scotland, in the middle of Sauchiehall St, certainly would be a case of sarcasm. It may be cold here, with 3 days a year of snow, but not to the extent that we have fully fledged Eskimos with Igloos in my street, as opposed to the other races that have taken residence.

I now see Blacks, Indians, Chinese living in my street and as you correctly say, they are invisible to the State. "Ma, paw and the Weans", but when you add in the rest of the family, who dont speak english, take every penny from the Goverment, put nothing into the community, then receive one of the largest houses in the Street with everything from Gas, Electricity, Rent/Mortgage, car, all paid for them. then it is little wonder that we rebel against them.
