Crimson wrote on Sun, 07 January 2007 01:00Yeah, BHS hasn't done ANYTHING... nevermind WOLProxy that has stopped several servers from crashing when XWIS (often) dies. And let's forget that we are merely days/weeks away from bringing back the public ladder (http://renladder.blackhand-studios.net)... but if that qualifies as "doing nothing" then I guess we're a bunch of slack-asses. Oh yeah, we're also close to releasing a tool to make serial banning possible, plus a couple exploit fixes and ladder-related fixes.

But, oh yeah, we haven't done anything recently at ALL .

Just out of interest, why did the renladder get a greater priority then RG1.04 on the BHS to-do list? I am very pleased to see the ladder coming back, it's awesome. I am just wondering why the ladder was more important or got more interest.