

---

Subject: Re: Marijuana

Posted by z310 on Sun, 14 Jan 2007 06:50:51 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Alex wrote on Sat, 13 January 2007 21:52 If you're addicted to tobacco, Then yes, when you're stressed out, It feels like a smoke can relax you.

If you don't smoke and your stressed out, and have a cig, You will most probably caught your lungs out then feel any more relaxed.

a cigarette has 100's of chemicals that kill you than relax you. lol tobacco is from the plant so it could relax you, not exactly sure on that one.

gamemodding wrote on Sat, 13 January 2007 22:00 it only relaxes you because you are stressed because of withdrawal symptoms. from the very first ciggy, your body wants more nicotine. if you don't give it what it wants you get stressed and heartbeats go up, when you give it nicotine it fulfills its demands thus relaxing. a lot of people would feel better not smoking, but meh. as long as people don't smoke near me i don't really care.

Have either of you ever smoked a cigarette?

---