Subject: Re: Firewall problems(I think)
Posted by Caveman on Thu, 18 Jan 2007 17:38:19 GMT

Terminator 101 wrote on Thu, 18 January 2007 10:56I have ZoneAlarm. I have been using it for long time(I got really suspicious when I would always disconnect from Diablo 2 servers, but getting Firewall fixed it).
Anyway, recently strange things started to happen: Sometimes my internet would stop working, and I could not find a reason why, until I turned off ZoneAlarm and then turn it on again, and then the internet started to work again.
Could someone be hacking me and forcing me to turn off the firewall?

P.S: I use Rogers high speed internet

I can't see why or how someone would be hacking you to make you turn off your firewall then back on again. However to make someone forcefully turn off there firewall, it would have to come from an EXP'd hacker not some random script kiddie. My point is why would a good hacker want to hack you? They're much more interested in big companys, banks and whatnot.