Here you go Gbull. You and others like you on this thread. If it were up to you the movie Demolition Man would be reality not Sci-Fi.

Society:

California of 2032 is neo-puritan: everything that isn't deemed good for you is bad for you, and everything bad for you is illegal.

Cigarettes, non-educational toys, gasoline, red meat, cursing, and contact sports have all been banned.

Sex has been outlawed as dangerous and unclean. People are no longer used to touching each other. It's all virtual sex.

Cars can drive themselves, and have "secure-foam" that erupts during a crash. Can't have our citizens driving themselves they could kill someone.

Is this Science Fiction or Reality? Seems like the perfect world for some on here.
