Blazer wrote on Fri, 19 January 2007 11:47 Some people are just angry right from the get-go. Just yesterday, at work we discovered someone had entered this for their email address on a CCNA survey form:

"the same fucking email address it always has been maybe if you had me log in for this like you should have you would have known now you get to figure out just like you get to figure out how to make this cisco ccna content even dryer than it already is @fuckyou.com"

those angry people are the ones you just laugh at. Don't get mad, get glad! They should be the ones that lighten your day jus because of that

Edit: Correct me if I'm wrong, but I think I coined the "white screen of death" term. yay
