not saying jump through hoops, im saying that i only want to give these models to the team who i think will actually make use of them and use them in a good mod, not a mod thats like a few squares made in gmax and then my guns put into it

I think i remember you also saying something along the lines of this too..

it was something like "the reason westwood gave the stuff to me was because they knew i was going to use it in something good, and not let it go to waste on a shitty map/mod" its not a perfect word for word quote, but this is kind of along the lines...

If im wrong, just tell me and i will take back what i said.
