I appologize I post this, but I have a final post to add to the topic from DarkKnight, but it seemed to be closed. Any infractions that I may deserve for posting it, reopening the subject, I will accept. It's just that it is important to me to have this out.

Here is the message:

This tread was indeed about you getting kicked from un for whatever. I would have left it alone if it wasn't for you DK Paging me you blame me for it and threatening me.

I told you it was behind me and said on UN I wouldn't mind talking to you on MSN sometimes, and you just blew it in my face. And now you are crying at romaner that you frustrated I seem to hate angry and leon, and take that anger out on you. Doesn't make sence to me. Who exactly has worse feelings for the other one here? Why would I invite you to get on MSN with me sometimes if I was still harbouring bad feelings? Seems you aren't over it to me.

And now that Tthom has registered to renz0r.com it must all be a conspiracy that you are banned. Well, if he had registered a month earlier or a month after this, that theory would still be possible. But than again, so is any theory for someone that paranoid.

The reason my PM to you was full of hate is because I am done with you.

I don't get what you want. In GDE it was like every month there was a time you wanted to leave, and decided a few days later you wanted to stay.

When this donation thing was going on you wanted to maybe join my clan, but later you didn't want to,

and you wanted to be THE leader of GDE and shape the clan back up.

You defened and liked UN in the past, but later you called them all Nazis and posted you never wanted to come back.

They banned you but a few months later you apologized and was back. Now you got your ass banned there again for a flame (ok, point of discussion if it was a flame, depends on how one defines the word flamewar and what level one finds acceptable).

So now UN is bad again. And with me? First you want to be friends, than you don't want to cause according to your own words,

I seemed unable to let go of the GDE past. Then the contact between us rests for a while. I send you a mail around christmas telling you merry xmas and happy newyear, asking how it is hanging. You reply kindly. Then you go all nice to me in a post here about someone feeling mistreated by my mod decision. And you page me friendly about me having still a GDE tag in my name on here in my profile. So I was thinking we were getting to a neutral point, but when I approach you for it you just... well.

I don't get what it is you want, and I get the impression you don't know yourself either.

And now you are gonna think of some devious plan to get back at me cause you think I conspired with Thom.

Well excuse me, but thats rediculas. I think something totally else is going on here.

Your plans with GDE never worked out cause it is as dead a clan can be. Sure the site is still up, but I feel that it is only up to conceal a large and deadly wound. But the blood is flowing through the concealment buddy.

Look at the post count. You are basically the only one to keep it alive. Where as renz0r.com (celebrating its 6 month of existence today) is flourishing and growing like a sunflower in mid spring. Two medium popular servers up and running, and 3 more in the making.

Maybe put aside your ego DK, stop blaming me for the consequences of the decisions you yourself have taken.

Yes, alot of people left GDE because of me. But look what happend before that hmm? Coolair quit, Slickbud quit, slayer was demoted who then left, and after that Gbull. And after the whole donations thing others have left too, and not to join me, but because they said the clan was dead. The clan was on a dead track already, dont blame me for its downfall.

You made your choices in the past to stay in GDE to build it up and I chose to start my own thing to build.

Its just a fucking game. Try to let go man, just for once, try to not give a shit and let it fucking go.

This is all I have to say about this to you DK, ever. Untill we meet again, I hope it will be onn neutral ground with mutual respect.

Peace, your old bud,

Reckneya
