And, I'd say they're pretty stupid if they're dumb enough to BELEIVE their mother. Obviously they've never read a history book, or "conviently skipped" the World War II parts...

If you had any idea what ideals inflicted on a person from a young age can mean then you wouldn't come across as a moron.

Take Christianity for example, if your tought Christian ideals from a young you'll likely go through life being Christian and not overly questioning it (ie: faith). Like some Christians don't think Dinosaurs existed even though there are fossils. It's the same thing with history books to them.

IronBalls

Germany suffers today because of idiots like this. The few cancerous people like these corrupt the image of Germany.

They are actually from America, generally the proper order is read then post rather than make assumptions on an image in a post that wasn't even part in the op. Nationalism of the type seen in Germany isn't specifically German, but Hitler is a symbol of that form nationalism, that's why they have Hitler on their T-shirts. Beacuse they are American they aren't tarnishing Germany's image.

plus, i doubt that hitler killed just one single jew himself.

Yeah, but you have to look at the fact he ordered the death of 6 million odd jews.

1: Uh, no. That's not true. Infact, did you know a lot of the people who are athiests turned athiest BECAUSE they were taught Christianity (if not had it shoved down their throat)? I myself am a Christian, and was taught Christianity at a young age. However, I still have my own views of it, and I don't follow EVERYTHING I was taught, nor what the Church told me. So I may not agree with people turning athiest when they're taught Christianity, but it does show that they don't always follow what they're taught. If you BLINDLY follow, then you are either a fool, or have 0 commen sense. And what the heck? What about Dinosaurs? I don't much see where that fit into this conversation, unless you're again generilizing Christians. In which case, you need to gain a bit of commen sense.

2: He didn't say "These people from Germany are making the Germans look bad", now did he? No, he didn't. There goes your entire paragraph.

To be honest, I agree with IronBalls, though. Even though they're not from Germany, most people will see them as Germans or something. But they still "beleive" (More like brainwashed to beleive) in a (bad) German idea. Most people will associate them with nazi's (Since that's what they are), then associate that with them being Germans- Then associate THAT with Germany in whole. Which is pretty dumb, so if people are infact doing this, they, too, need to get some commen sense. It's sad but it's true, the idiots tend to give the thing in whole a bad name. Hence why America has a bad reputation (Even amongst it's own population... Mostly teens it seems)- Just because it has some idiots, apperently must mean ALL of us are idiots

3: When he said "I doubt that hitler killed just one single jew himself.", I don't think he meant "He's not a bad guy cuz he never killed a Jew...", lol

Also, I agree with Jerad... Those "sarcasm tags" were there for a reason...
