If I were in the position you are...

I would just trash it if it was still in my possession. I wouldn't be able to live everyday thinking the guy who lost it is getting killed slowly inside, and the object would remind of it everyday when I think and look at it. If you trash it, there isn't anything to remind you of it, and you wouldn't think about it.

But that doesn't mean you should sell it, just throw it in the dump, you will get money, spend it on something else that will remind of you it, if you get anything linked to it, and the object, you will move on, besides, if its already broken, where would it end up in the end?

Your just going to save yourself all the trouble.
