

---

Subject: Re: Poll: Should JohnDoe be banned?

Posted by bigejoe14 on Tue, 20 Mar 2007 04:48:54 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

icedog90 wrote on Mon, 19 March 2007 19:19 You have good points, but I don't know what you're saying about how I do my job. I do a lot more than just move posts to the proper forums. There's no way you can tell what I do except for that, because that's the only thing that leaves a trail. If I remove a post or topic, it's usually impossible to tell if they were there in the first place.

Sorry if it seemed like I was making remarks about how you do your job here. I was just speaking in general, to prove most of my points I was making.

Quote: The reason I'm so against banning a member like JohnDoe so fast like this is because it seems to be happening way too much. I don't think we should just throw people out all the time. I feel like it should be taken with more maturity and that we should act like adults about it, instead of just whipping out the ban hammer.

It may seem like the ban hammer shouldn't come this quickly, but the thing is, if you were to ban JohnDoe at some point in time, it would be best to do it now or sometime in the very near future. JohnDoe has had a banning comming for a very long time now, yet he hasn't gotten it yet. Don't think that you're throwing him out all willy nilly either. He's done nothing but troll this forum into oblivion ever since he joined here, and has had nothing to contribute, yet he's still here. It's a good idea to be able to distinguish between times where you need to take effort into investigating why you're banning said person, and when you feel that someone is causing way too much trouble to be allowed to stay for very long. JohnDoe fits into the latter category, if you ask me. Sometimes, a swift kick to the nuts is the only way to get certain internet people to shut up.

Quote: I think what really turned me off was how Viking was thrown into this whole thing. That is a perfect example of what I'm talking about.

Viking shouldn't even be a part of this disscussion, and I don't know why people insisted on banning him.

---