Yeah i'm working with jon wil testing the current and the new version of the dll with the scripts. So far when we last spoke we tested out version 1.1 on some of the current scripts and it's faulty. I think he is working hard on getting it working though so that should be good if we can get the scripts working. Hopefully at the release of my tutorials people will start to use the script more in their maps because some of the things that can be done using scripts are stunning. I just wish good luck to jon getting the new DLL fixed.
