- UK says data shows captured sailors were 1.7 miles inside Iraqi waters
- UK's Blair says prepared for "different phase" if diplomacy fails to free the 15
- Iran says sailors, captured while boarding vessels, were in Iranian waters

cnnGlobal positioning data shows that a group of 15 British sailors and marines was 1.7 nautical miles (3.1 kilometers) inside Iraqi waters when they were captured by Iran last week, Britain's Ministry of Defence said on Wednesday.

Vice Admiral Charles Style told reporters that the Iranians gave a position on Sunday -- a location he said was in Iraqi waters.

By Tuesday, Iranian officials had revised that position eastwards by 2 miles, placing the group inside Iranian waters -- a claim he said was not verified by GPS coordinates.
