Anyway, unless you get the source code to these apps there's no point in doing so. Anti-cheating purposes if you would have read the topic you would no this, when I release Renhalo, I don't want anyone to cheat in it. If I make it so you can't open the files you would have to recreate the objects file you self, and that would be quite impossible. I could care less if anyone took my stuff because people will know who actually made it.
