If you mean BR.net, it used to be hosted on BeaconPedestal, which went offline a while back, for unknown reasons. The original creator of that site has not been around the community for a while. BR.net has not been updated in a long time, although I heard there was a revival in the works a while ago.

If you mean BRenBot, that is still in active development, and it's website is not offline, just needs updating with the latest version of BRenBot.
