Second bad impression:

Westwood: We are going to make a few patches to fix what we could not get done because of you forcing it out so early.

EA: okay, but don't spend too much money, we did not make as much as expected off of your stupid game

Westwood: okay, we have finished our patch that allows flying aircraft, now all we have to do is improve the controls and add a few more multiplayer game mods, then start working on Renegade 2.

EA: Oh, um did I forget to mention, because Renegade did not sell as much as expected, we are disbanding Westwood.

Westwood:

EA: well see you guys around, or not, in the mean time we will continue to repackage your games more and longer than almost any other game.

Westwood: I suppose this is necessary to continue making your sports games rolls eyes

EA: nah, we are working on a new Barby game, it is going to be the ect.
