Don't defend him. I'm pretty sure Middle is one of his friends, anyway.

The whole point here is: changing your name isn't an issue. But when you HAVE to change your name because everyone despises you for cheating and stealing other people's ideas and being a downright low-life ... then you get caught ... it confirms his lack of integrity. And a lack of integrity is not to be praised or respected under any circumstance.

Just the other day I removed ALL blocks on my MSN (about 20 people) which I do every so often. I'm a pretty laid back and forgiving person. One of the first people to come to me was Matix saying "I'm sorry, I don't care about RenCorner, blah blah" trying to make it seem like he's trying to change. This right here proves that it was all a bullshit cover to help distract from his new identity.

Until you're affected, I don't expect you to understand. But for those of us that work hard and spend a lot of money on our servers and sites in this community things many people take for granted its extremely irritating to deal with people like this.
