well i use 2.9 because not everyone has the new scripts and one thing i learned form a server is because the user did not have the update scripts it could not see or do what was added or extra on the scripts for example stealth suits or other stuff because they did not have them and im change a lot of things

all i want is to run the corepatch scripts (since most people with have them) and edit and save my edited source files and use them in the serv so pretty much ill follow what you typed above but idk where to download that software and where can i download the ssaow source files i think i messaed mine up and when i do what u did above can i do that to edit the crate.c++ and the aow.c++ and ect?
