Keynote Speech

A few days ago at WWDC 07, Steve Jobs announced that EA Games are going to be releasing four games for OS X and more are to come.

One of these happens to be Command and Conquer 3. If it runs as well as it does on Windows this is a definite buy for me.

The keynote speech goes into the new Leopard (10.5) features of OS X, which are, amazing.

To those of you who own or use a Macintosh computer this may be interesting to you. To those of you who do not, please do not go on and on about how windows (is) better than OS X. Failure to comply will result in your post being reported to a moderator and if it get really out of hand, i will request the locking of this topic.
