every evening(in my timedistrict) is the server of DG full, so it doesn't say anything that a server owner has cheat during a fw the normal players aren't interrested in the story about a server owner who is cheating it's bad what he has done, but just leave it, do what you feelings is saying

You don't care that he cheated?

You don't care that he lied to everyone in your community so you would look stupid by defending someone who was obviously guilty?

Is it not more reasonable to suggest that you guys have tried to cover it up at DG forums? As soon as the truth comes out that Erik was lying to you right from the start, it's all "it's over people make mistakes move on!", right?
