You should play on a server with an updated copy of BRenBot or NightRegulator then, as they no longer kick you from the game when RenGuard disconnects. Obviously whichever server you are playing in is using an out of date bot.

Wow what a fix. Everyone should play on a server with an upgraded BRenBot or NR. Come on this is just plain ignorant.

How about fixing the client side. Renguard installs on the client side.

Or maybe there should be a disclaimer on Renguard that states when installing this program it will require you to play only on a server that has the upgraded BRenBot or NR.

Everyone has stopped using it they are all tired of it crashing to the desktop.

This program is now on the Gaming most useless anti-cheat software list.

The title of this post is correct. You guys should merge all the other posts into this one and create a small short story.
