I predicted in the future that republics and democracy will fall. Soon every nation, including ones in Europe, will try to make their country so "secure" that the presidents/prime ministers and congress/parliament won't realize what they are doing.

I bet in the future, Arm guards everywhere, No freedoms of speech for the fear of terrorists, Every assembly will result in instant execution, you'll be lucky to have a trial. We'll have a machine in our houses that constantly checks us every time we leave the house. No cars, but government trains to take you to places the government says to go.

The governments will also squeeze every half-penny and resources out of our hands, any thing that can harm. They will make us work in factories to make weapons to fight against the newly formed rebellion or make us join the army or air force. And a small ration, the same size at every house will be your "pay."

Then comes your chance. The voting poll. Of course the last thirty years no one voted for no one. And voted no against any tax or law. But this time the polls are gone. The government thinks that your votes are favoring the rebellion. And stop the last light of democracy. The countries of earth will be a imperialistic Communism under one corrupted leader, that inspired hundreds in of followers and murdered millions who express their opinions, and fought against the government.

Our Act of open rebellion is expected in 20 years. We must start an organization and find a new, vaulted, resource. Who's with me when this happens?

Say anymore and I'm sure George Lucas will sue!
