When I was at EALA, I was told that a C&C FPS was not outside the realm of possibility. Based on my life experience, I will take that to mean that they are talking about it and the success or failure of C&C3 will play a huge role as to whether there's still sufficient profit in the franchise. They can't tell any of us secretly because they are a publicly-traded company and there are rules to prevent stuff like insider trading.
