Well tell you truth, I myself bought a DS for IRC usage on the go, then I started finding all these clearance games that are a few years old...they are addicting, the DS's graphics power is actually really good, it's just most games dont use it's capability, I was playing brothers in Arms and the graphics seen probably the best for the DS, gameplay is good, and troopr...dont talk bad till you own the machine, I own a psp too, and I have yet to play any game which seems addicting online.
